

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

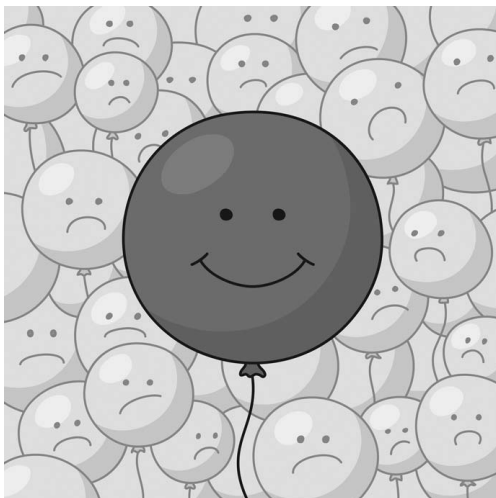

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

The future is friendly!

Learning Outcome

Understand actions, events, and experiences in present, past or future and in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Are you optimistic about your professional future? Why or why not?
- How will the area in which you work or study be different in the next 5 years? 10 years?

Can Do Statements

- I can express willingness or intention to do something.
- I can express that a fairly certain condition will be fulfilled.
- I can discuss future plans for a company.

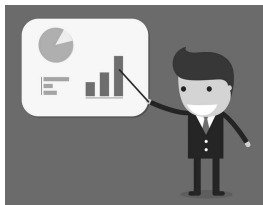

Let's Explore!

Denise and Kristi talk about the future of BFP Publishing. They want to be a transparent company.

* A "transparent" person or company is one that freely provides information publicly.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Kristi: How long have you been with the company, Ms. Moore?
- Denise: I've been here going on six years. I am really excited about future projects.
- Kristi: What's in store for the future?
- Denise: Like all companies, we have monthly, quarterly, semi-annual and annual goals to meet. This helps the shareholders understand that we are continuously moving toward our long-term goal. I will prepare a presentation about that shortly. You can help me make it look interesting.
- Kristi: Sure. What are your plans for the future?
- Denise: We have lots and lots of projects underway. For example, in the future, we will publish more specialized books on things like gardening. I am also very excited about our prospects in the publishing of children's books.
- Kristi: I would love to work on a project like that.
- Denise: If you expressed an interest in that, I'm sure you will be able to. Another area that is new for us is the publishing of e-books. Many people are more comfortable reading on their computer or their tablet, rather than the printed form of a book. If the demand for e-books continues to grow, there will be new opportunities in areas like history or recipe books.
- Kristi: When I think of e-books, I think about self-publishing. I'd be interesting in trying that one day.
- Denise: Yes, a lot of people are interested in self-publishing nowadays. We want to help them do that. We will offer training courses and workshops on self-publishing. There are many steps in the publishing process that self-publishers will need help with, so we will offer any services they may need. You could say it's a smorgasbord approach.
- Kristi: Are self-publishers successful?
- Denise: It depends on what you mean by successful. You may need to sell 1000 copies per year to earn back your investment. If you have low costs associated with the project, it will be less than that. Of course, many people will feel successful if they reach the final stage of publication. It's a great feeling.

Let's Practice!

Denise talks about her ideas for the future, and the future is friendly!

Instructions: Write the correct form of the verb in the boxes to complete the sentences. Practice saying the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

to prepare to need to offer

to publish

to offer

1. I will _____ a presentation about that shortly.
2. In the future, we will _____ more specialized books on things like gardening.
3. We will _____ training courses and workshops on self-publishing.
4. There are many steps in the publishing process that self-publishers will _____ help with.
5. We will _____ any services they may need.

Let's Practice!

Denise and Kristi talk about certain conditions that may be fulfilled in the future.

Instructions: Choose the correct option to complete the sentence. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

- | 1. | 2. | 3. | 4. | 5. |
|------------------|---------------|---------------|------------------|------------------|
| If you express | there will be | If your costs | If people feel | will the process |
| You will express | if there are | Your costs | People will feel | the process |
| If express | there are | If your | Will people feel | if the process |

1. _____ an interest in that, I'm sure you will be able to work in that area.
2. If the demand for e-books continues to grow, _____ new opportunities in areas like history or recipe books.
3. _____ associated with the project are low, it will be less than that.
4. _____ successful if they reach the final stage of publication.
5. More people will choose to self-publish _____ is easy for them to manage.

Extension Activity

Write a dialogue in which you and 2 of your partners talk about plans for the future. Invent three different characters.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Each person works in a different career field, like medicine (doctor or nurse), agriculture (farmer or scientist), or the airline industry (pilot or engineer).
- Write a dialogue of 10 - 15 lines between these three people. They talk about plans for the future in their professional area.
- Use sentences with when and if to show certainty about the future.
- Use sentences with will to show plans and intentions for the future.
- Practice your dialogue with two other people.
- With your partners, discuss which career field seems the most interesting for the future.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write sentences to show certainty about the future.

☐ ☐

I write about plans and intentions.

☐ ☐

I read the dialogue aloud.

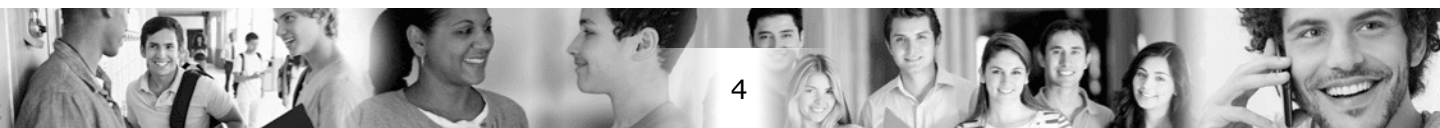

☐ ☐

I discuss the future of different career fields.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- smorgasbord (noun): a variety of products or services a person can choose from (originally, a large selection of food)
e.g. You could say it's a smorgasbord approach.
- quarterly (adjective): four times a year
e.g. Like all companies, we have monthly, quarterly, semi-annual and annual goals to meet.
- semi-annual (adjective): two times a year
e.g. Our semi-annual goals may be difficult to reach this year.
- e-book (noun): a book that is only published in electronic form e.g. Another area that is new for us is the publishing of e-books.
- tablet (noun): a small electronic device, similar to a computer, used for reading e.g. Many people are more comfortable reading on their computer or their tablet, rather than the printed form of a book.
- self-publishing (noun): the process of publishing a written work, such as a story or novel, by yourself (not through a publishing company) e.g. We will offer training courses and workshops on self-publishing.
- shareholder (noun): a person who owns a part of a company, usually through stocks
e.g. This helps the shareholders understand that we are continuously moving toward our long-term goal.

Learning Points

Will to Express Intention or Willingness

When you talk about intention, you express what you have in mind for a future time. When you talk about willingness, you express what you are prepared or ready to do.

You use will to talk about both intention and willingness.

The precise meaning will vary according to the context of the conversation. It implies a voluntary action and oftentimes it is a response to a complaint or request.

For example:

I won't be staying long. (= intention not to stay long)

I'll give you a hand with the report when I'm done this. (willingness)

Examples:

- I will prepare a presentation about that shortly.
- In the future, we will publish more specialized books on things like gardening.
- We will offer training courses and workshops on self-publishing.

Expressing Certainty: When and If

The words when and if are quite different in English. You use them to qualify a condition.

For example:

If Sarah comes to the meeting, we'll talk it over with her then.

Here, the use of if implies that the speaker is not sure that Sarah will attend the meeting.

When Sarah comes to the meeting, we'll talk it over with her then.

Here, the use of when implies that the speaker is quite sure that Sarah will be at the meeting.

In other words, when indicates a stronger certainty than if.

Examples:

- If you express an interest, I'm sure you will be able to work in that area.
- If the demand for e-books continues to grow, there will be new opportunities in areas like history or recipe books.
- If you have low costs associated with the project, it will cost less.

