

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Express duty, advice, willingness, or intention to do something in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you feel your present job is a good match for your personality? Why or why not?
- Are you a holistic ("big picture") thinker or more detail-oriented?
- What would your ideal job be? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about the present result of events that started in the past in work and job issues.
- I can emphasize intentions or requirements related to job issues.
- I can express emotions and feelings.

Let's Explore!

Are BFP's numbers starting to climb?

* If a number starts to "climb", it increases.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Denise: Good morning, Adam. I'm sorry to have kept you waiting.

Adam: Good morning, Ms. Moore. How are you?

Denise: I'm good, thanks. The quarterly report shows our numbers are finally starting to climb for selling workbooks in the school market. It appears our pitch and marketing plan have been successful. What can I do for you?

Adam: Ms. Moore, there appears to have been some miscommunication during the hiring process. It seems as though the responsibilities the company has given me are not a good match for my personality.

Denise: Go on.

Adam: It seems I have come to the realization that I am a more holistic thinker. I love creative writing because it transports me to another place. I also love the research and conversations that are required in order to come up with great stories. As an editorial assistant, I'm looking for missing commas all day long.

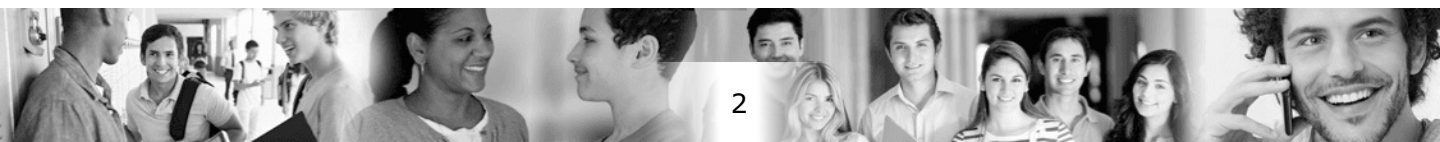

Denise: It looks like you haven't been told everything you need to have been told about publishing, Adam. I would say your tasks have not been well explained. It also sounds as though we have had similar experiences. I, too, felt that I wasn't well suited for editing work when I first started. The reality is that you need to have both skill sets. You need to be a visionary so as to be able to undertake large projects. You also need to be attentive to detail so as to catch small mistakes and inconsistencies.

Adam: What do you suggest?

Denise: You will start enjoying detailed work more as you get better at it. Then, as circumstances change, you will be exposed to a greater variety of tasks. You will do some creative writing and sit in on brainstorming sessions. Those will be fascinating conversations. Listen, to expedite things, why don't we transfer you to my team? I can be a sort of mentor for helping you to adjust.

Adam: Wow, Ms. Moore! Thank you!

Denise: You're welcome, Adam. It seems we have really understood each other.

Let's Practice!

Adam and Denise talk about what needs to be done.

Instructions: Circle the correct word to complete the sentence. Use the sentences to model a conversation with your partner. Switch roles.

1. The quarter / quarterly / quartered report shows our numbers are finally starting to climb for / so as to / in order to selling workbooks / bookworms / workshops in the school market.
2. I also love the research and conversations that are required for / so as to / in order to come up with great stories. You need to be a visionary for / so as to / in order to be able to undermake / undertake / understood large projects. You also need to be attentive to detail for / so as / order to catch small mistakes and inconsistencies.
3. I can be a sort of mentor for / so as to / in order helping you to adjust.
4. You will need to change tasks quickly for /so as to / in order to keep up with changing circumferences / circumstances / circunvents.
5. For / So as / In order to – expedite / for expedition / excite the process, you will be transferred to this team.

Let's Practice!

Does Denise think the plan worked?

Instructions: Proofread the sentence. Cross out the incorrect word. Write the correct word on the line. Practice saying the sentences. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

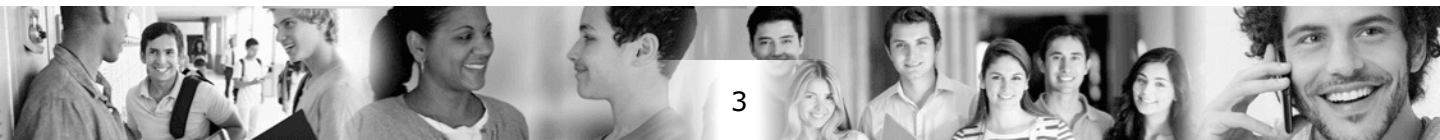

1. It seemed our pitch and marketing plan were not successful.

2. It looks like as though the responsibilities the company have assigned are not a good match for my personality.

3. It seems I had realized to the realization that I am a more holistic person.

4. It also looks as though we had to similar experiences.

5. It appears we have really understanding each other.

Extension Activity

Role-play a situation giving an interview to a candidate for a job.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- With a partner, choose a job you would like to fill in your role play.
- Discuss what kind of tasks a person in that job must perform. Do you need someone who is a holistic thinker or someone who is more detail-oriented?
- Role-play an interview. The interviewer asks questions to determine if the person is the right candidate.
- The candidate asks questions about the job.
- Conclude your role-play.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I discuss tasks an employee must perform in a job.

☐
☐

I discuss types of personality related to jobs, using words like holistic thinker and detail-oriented.

☐
☐

I ask questions related to work and personality.

☐
☐

Target Words

- to undertake (verb): to commit to work on (a project)
e.g. You need to be a visionary so as to be able to undertake large projects.
- responsibility (noun): what is expected of you; what you are expected to do e.g. It seems as though the responsibilities the company has given me are not a good match for my personality.
- quarterly (adjective): four times a year
e.g. The quarterly report shows our numbers are finally starting to climb.
- circumstance (noun): situation
e.g. As circumstances change, you will be exposed to a greater variety of tasks.
- workbook (noun): a book used to help learn a subject with spaces to write answers
e.g. We think the workbooks are a very useful product.
- to expedite (verb): to make things go faster
e.g. To expedite things, why don't we transfer you to my team?

Learning Points

Purpose Clauses

When you want to explain the purpose or reason behind a decision or action, you can use purpose clauses.

There are certain words and phrases you can use to introduce purpose clauses.

Take a look at the chart for a review of some of these words and phrases:

Word/Phrase	Use	Example
in order to ... so as to ...	emphasize intention OR express a negative purpose	They arrived early so as to prepare the room. In order not to be late, I drove.
for	before nouns to express purpose before gerunds (-ing form of the verb) to express purpose	They did it for the reward. This pool is only deep enough for wading, not for swimming.

Examples:

- I also love the research and conversations that are required in order to come up with great stories.
- You need to be a visionary so as to be able to undertake large projects.
- I can be a sort of mentor for helping you to adjust.

Learning Points

The Perfect Infinitive

The Perfect tenses can be used to talk about how something in the past relates to the present.

You can use the Perfect Infinitive after certain link verbs (appear, seem) to talk about a time period in the past.

For example:

He seems to have already been hired.

They appear to have finished the presentation.

The structure of the Perfect Infinitive is:

subject + appear/seem + to have + past participle

Examples:

- She seems to have taken her meeting with the director seriously.
- He seems to have not explained the task very well.
- There appears to have been some miscommunication during the hiring process.

